KEYMACRO is a free powerful utility that converts plain text passwords into all major key-files for popular applications, including the world's most popular encryption applications. Why do we need KEYMACRO? The problem with existing solutions is that they often don't use the most secure algorithm available in the market. They are also missing the built-in feature to convert passwords to user-friendly key-files. Instead, they do the "reverse" task and store user-friendly keys in the application password file and leave the application's master password un-encrypted. In other words, all applications have a single password, and a single password in the master password file may store the data for a dozen or more applications. Now KEYMACRO is here, and does both jobs: - Encrypts user-friendly keys into the application password file - Decrypts application-specific master passwords It's the perfect application for people who love to save time on frequently used applications and don't like to enter the same key every time they change their password. KEYMACRO Features: · Powerful AES encryption with keys that are directly generated from the master password · Generates up to 256 user-friendly keys, each with a maximum of 1024 key bytes · Storing user-friendly keys in password files of popular applications · Uses the most secure algorithm (AES) available in the market · Supports most popular applications such as MS Word, Excel, Outlook, Internet Explorer, Firefox and so on. · 100% FREE! · Can be downloaded & used without charge! · Support 30 languages · Compatible with Windows 7, Vista and XP · Support for any number of users What's new in this version: · Support for Windows 7 · Support for all languages Source Code Library: Source Code Library is a unique feature-rich source code library and clipboard extender.
